HES Fall 2018 Seminar Series

September 7th Dr. Kathleen Zackowski, National Multiple Sclerosis Society
Understanding how Research can Improve Rehabilitation.

September 14th Dr. Jefferey Burgess, University of Arizona.
Partnering with Fire Departments to Reduce Exposures and Health Risks.

September 21st Dr. Laura Rogers, University of Alabama at Birmingham.
A Translational Exercise Oncology Research Program.

September 28th Janée Terwoord, CSU – HES Doctoral Candidate.
Local Control of Skeletal Muscle Blood Flow: Role of K⁺-mediated Vasodilation.

October 5th Dr. Brooks Hybertson, Pathways Bioscience
Small Business R&D on the NRF2 Transcription Factor Pathway.

October 12th Dr. Ray Browning, Nike.
Making Athletes Better: Product Innovation at Scale

October 19th Dr. Sandra Hunter, Marquette University.
Exercise-Related Fatigue in Healthy and Clinical Populations.

November 2nd Dr. Audrey Bergouignan, CU-Denver.
Get up, Stand Up, Stand Up for your Health! Role of physical activity and sedentary behaviors in the regulation of metabolic flexibility.

November 9th Dr. Mackenzi Pergolatti, ReVital Cancer Rehabilitation.
Comprehensive Cancer Rehabilitation: A look towards the future of cancer survivorship care.

November 30th Dr. Michelle Foster, CSU – FSHN.
Female Adipose Tissue Distribution and Metabolic Health: What Drives the Pear Shape?

December 7th Rob Musci, CSU – HES Doctoral Candidate.
Assessing the effects of Nrf2 activator treatment on mitochondrial function in skeletal muscle of young guinea pigs prone to knee osteoarthritis.